Register for HETL Webinar: Lifelong Learning in Higher Education

Wed, Dec 7, 2022 9:30 AM - 10:30 AM EST

Traditional boundaries for higher education institutions have become increasingly fluid as they try to adapt to the rapidly changing conditions of a globalized world. Higher education has entered an era where lifelong (and life-wide) learning is not only necessary to modern life but it is also now viewed as a basic human right. Join the discussion on why knowledge and skills must be continually upgraded in order to adapt to changing economic, social, and technological conditions.

Call for Papers: Pedagogical Innovations in Higher Education

Education around the world is experiencing tremendous change. This change, brought about by intense globalization and internationalization as well as economic and technological changes, requires that educational institutions respond to the new demands from society, students, and other stakeholders. It is within this context that this special issue will cover critical topics relevant to basic and higher education institutions around the world, such as creativity in teaching and learning, educational technology, assessment and standards, education for sustainable development, learning analytics, and educational leadership.
