Putting the Pieces Together....

Mission and Vision
- Educating students for career success
- Transforming lives and communities through learning

Academic Framework
- Organizational Learning Framework
- Draft E-Learning Framework

Statement of Diversity
- SLE and Global Citizenship and Equity Competencies
- Draft Equity Framework
Centennial learners are citizens in the global sense through recognition that we must all be aware of our use of resources and find ways to live together in a sustainable way. We must be able to reflect on the many identities that contribute to our whole being, that form who we are as individuals, as members of communities, in our roles and responsibilities, and in our place in the world. When we see that others are being treated with injustice, we know that we are responsible for trying to ensure that others are treated justly and provided with equitable opportunities as fellow citizens of the world. We think critically about what we do and say, and make sure that our actions are inclusive, to bring about transformational changes in lives and communities for personal, career and societal benefits.
Four structural elements of SLE

- GNED 500 course
- Embedding of global citizenship & equity outcomes across the curriculum
- SLE portfolio
- Professional development & learning for all
Targeted Learning Outcomes

GC&E Program Learning Outcome

Develop global citizenship and equity knowledge, skills, and experiences as they relate to individual and community identities, critical social analysis, sustainability of resources, and enhanced personal and social responsibility.

GC&E Course Learning Outcomes

1. Examine one’s roles and responsibilities as a global citizen in personal and professional life
2. Examine beliefs, values and behaviours that form individual and community identities and the basis for respectful relationships
3. Analyze issues of equity at the personal, professional, and global level
4. Analyze the use of the world’s resources to achieve sustainability and equitable distribution at the personal, professional, and global level
5. Identify and challenge unjust practices in local and global systems
6. Demonstrate how one’s actions support personal and social responsibility at the local, national or global level
SLE Experience

- Centennial College: Signature Learning Experience (SLE) - YouTube
The signature Learning Experience is the articulation of Centennial College’s commitment to embedding the principles of global citizenship and equity in our learning, teaching and working environment. In this introductory course participants will have the opportunity to develop the knowledge and skills required to work and live in a diverse world. It represents a look at the concepts of global citizenship, social justice and equitable treatment of all individuals. Examples of issues of social justice examined are politics, economics, religion, technology, energy and environment. Learners will explore personal and social responsibility in their own lives, in their communities, and in the global and local work environments. Critical analysis of ideas and an examination of core concepts of identity, equity, equality, social analysis, social action and reflective practice will assist learners to develop communication, research, critical thinking and problem solving skills.
Introduction to Global Citizenship and Equity

Silverman’s Study

• Found pre-service teachers hold a limited view on what constitutes diversity, which affects their sense of efficacy, responsibility and advocacy as individuals and teachers (Silverman 2010)

• “Educators who are not aware of their own complicity in what Appelbaum (2004) characterizes as “institutional oppression,” or discriminatory practices built into education, cannot feel responsible for reversing it.” (Silverman, 2010: 300)
Pedagogy

- Borrowed from work of critical social scholars from various social fields (e.g. feminist, queer, race, disability and cultural studies)
